Acknowledgements

All of the chapters in this collection proceed from papers presented at the conference 'Corpses in Society: Human Remains in Post-Genocide and Mass Violence Contexts', held at the University of Manchester on 8, 9 and 10 September 2014, organised by the international research programme, 'Corpses of Mass Violence and Genocide'. A large number of people were involved in the event and we would like to thank their contribution towards the stimulating discussions that followed.

First, we are grateful to the School of Arts, Languages and Cultures at the University of Manchester for assisting with the preparation of the conference and the Institut de recherche interdisciplinaire sur les enjeux sociaux in Paris for its support. We are indebted to Emmanuelle Gravejat (EHESS-Paris) for her administrative assistance and the enthusiasm of the 'Corpses of Mass Violence' team: Caroline Fournet (University of Groningen, Netherlands), Jon Shute (University of Manchester) and Sévane Garibian (University of Geneva). In particular, Laurence Radford (University of Manchester) was invaluable for dealing with the overall preparation of the conference and for his unwavering commitment to the publication as an editor.

We must also thank the following people for their participation at the conference and for encouraging thought-provoking debates: Luis Rios (Sociedad de Ciencias Aranzadi), Joachim Neander, Zuzanna Dziuban (Universität Konstanz), Francisco

Ferrándiz (Centro de Ciencias Humanas y Sociales), Francisca Alves Cardoso (Universidade Nova de Lisboa), Clement Bernad, Martin Eickhoff (NIOD, Amsterdam), Lore Colaert (Ghent University) and Rémi Korman (EHESS–Paris).

Finally, we are indelibly grateful to the European Research Council for their ongoing support for the research programme ‘Corpses of Mass Violence and Genocide’, which, in turn, brought the conference and resulting publication to fruition.
