

Acknowledgements

This book has taken some time to come to publication and we want to start by thanking the parents we interviewed. They often showed a welcome enthusiasm to talk about their very-fresh-in-the-mind experiences of applying to secondary schools for their children and a readiness to think about aspects of this process that they had perhaps not considered before. We would also like to thank the primary schools in Whalley Range, Chorlton and Cheadle Hulme for helping us access the parents; the high schools in the same areas for allowing us to attend open days; and the headteachers, choice advisers and others who gave us interviews as part of this research.

We would also like to thank the ESRC for funding the research (grant reference RES-000-22-3466) and the ESRC-funded Centre on the Dynamics of Ethnicity (CoDE) at the University of Manchester for providing the institutional context for this research. Tom Dark at Manchester University Press has been an exemplary (and very patient) editor. Bridget would like to thank many colleagues in CoDE, the sociology department at Manchester and beyond for their interest in the project, support and general collegiality, including: Claire Alexander, Andy Balmer, Alice Bloch, Wendy Bottero, Bethan Harries, Brian Heaphy, Virinder Kalra, Graeme Kirkpatrick, James Rhodes, Nick Thoburn, Vanessa May, Niamh Moore, James Nazroo, Diane Reay, Abril Saldaña Tejada, Andy Smith, Eithne Quinn and Satnam Virdee. She would also like to thank Khalid, Sara and Sami for their patience, with apologies to Sara for not interviewing children, or taking her advice on the title.
